Occupy Toronto Joins the Global Call for the Robin Hood Tax and Economic Justice

Dear Allies,

Occupy Toronto is planning to host a march and rally this Saturday, October 29th to join the global movement calling for the implementation of a 1% Robin Hood Tax on all financial transactions and currency trades.

On the eve of the G20 Summit in France, we join Occupy movements across the world in demanding an end to speculative financial transactions. The increasing financialization of our economies over the past three decades has led to crippling debt and austerity, the brunt of which has been borne by the 99% even as the 1% enjoys unprecedented profits.

While recognizing that the Robin Hood Tax does not constitute a definitive solution to problems of injustice and inequality, Occupy Toronto sees its implementation as a vital part of an overall strategy of redressing the increasing gap between the haves and have-nots.

We invite all allies to join our rally at 2:00pm at St. James Park (King & Church) and march with us to the heart of Toronto's Financial District at Bay & King. Join the call to make the 1% pay!

In Solidarity,
The Occupy Toronto Action Committee
