Greetings Sisters and Brothers:

Re: PSAC Street Theatre Democracy Workshop (Toronto)
October 5 – 6, 2010

I am happy to announce that the PSAC Toronto Regional Office has organized a two-day Street Theatre Democracy Workshop that will be held in Toronto on October 5 - 6, 2010. The workshop is being facilitated by special guest facilitator Jessica Bleuer, Drama Therapist and Adult Educator.

This artistic workshop is a pilot project and is the first of its kind within the PSAC Ontario Region. The workshop will allow interested members to explore their creativity in a fun, safe and supportive environment. There is no prerequisite course required and anyone interested is encouraged to apply. Please indicate on your registration form if you have any artistic/creative training or experience.

I have included a copy of the workshop description and agenda, as well as the registration form and information about your entitlement to expenses. We only have available space for 15 participants, so please apply early. Locals may want to consider this workshop as a way to recruit new activists. Please note that participants are expected to attend future PSAC Street Theatre events which will utilize these workshop techniques.

Workshop information and registration form is also available on the PSAC Ontario website at: www.ontario.pfac.com.

Please note that the registration deadline is September 10, 2010.
